MEET THE ARTIST
ANDY JENKINS

Jenkins has spent over 35 years working in the skateboarding industry as a respected creative director, graphic designer and illustrator. In that time he has earned a reputation as one of the mainstays in the skate artist community - well known for his skate comic, Wrench Pilot and his tenor as art director at the Girl Skateboard Company based in Torrance, California. Andy has become recognised throughout skateboarding for his signature style. He has supported several local skateshops around the country, donating his time and art to help bolster up-and-coming skate scenes. Several murals were born out of those efforts.

"I've been lucky to have been involved in skateboarding for the better part of my career. It's not only my job, but a passion, having grown up as a skater. Working big is a joy - especially in conjunction with local parks. It would be a blast to make big art in Redondo Beach."

Jenkins is a long time resident of the South Bay. Upcoming projects include a mural at the Channel Street skatepark in San Pedro. To see more of his work check out meetandyjenkins.com
